

To promote “The Practical Plan of Teachers’ Professional Development” – to create a “being self-motivated, engaging the public, and seeking the common good” supporting environment for teachers’ professional development.

The Ministry of Education has transformed “The Evaluation Plan of Teachers’ Professional Development” into “The Practical Plan of Teachers’ Professional Development” since 2017 Academic Year, with the concepts of “being self-motivated, engaging the public, and seeking the common good” to support teachers’ professional development. The Ministry will also promote the supporting system for professional development of teachers, through integration of various plans and resources, and the partnership with universities that provide teacher education and local high and elementary schools, and through offering a developing mode that caters for self-motivated professional development of teachers in different career stages. It is hoped that the introduction of a partnership connecting central government, local authorities, schools, and teachers will positively reduce the working loads of school teachers and administrators. It is also expected to give practical support and assistance to the needs for professional development of teachers, thus enhancing teacher’s profession, as well as the learning performance of students.
