Your best choice for Mandarin Chinese Learning!

Taiwan has for many years been home to numerous institutions devoted to the study of the Mandarin Chinese Language.

Perhaps this is one reason why the number of international students coming to Taiwan for all levels of language study has been steadily increasing.

Students find that in addition to being able to enjoy the benefits of language training facilities, there is much to be learned from experiencing the blend of tradition and modernity found in Taiwan.

The fact that Taiwan's economy was opened to other countries decades ago means that the thinking, while remaining traditional, is also to some extent international.

The "High Quality" of teaching and environments is the promise we can give to each student who chooses Taiwan to learn Mandarin Chinese.

Let this handbook and our website guide and help you to get more information about how to study Mandarin Chinese in Taiwan.

WELCOME!

Taiwan is worth experiencing!

History

In the 16th century, Portuguese ships sailed to Southeast Asia and discovered Taiwan. Sailors aboard these ships were enchanted by the island's natural beauty and majestic scenery. They exclaimed: "Ilha Formosa!" -- "beautiful island" in Portuguese, and the name has become synonymous with Taiwan ever since.

Geography

Taiwan is located off the southeastern coast of China, at the western edge of the Pacific Ocean, between Japan and the Philippines. The Central Mountain Range divides the east and west coasts and stretches from north to south.

A wonderful variety of geo-graphical contrasts exist: mountains, hills, plateaus, plains, basins and coastline, all in which a diversity of unique flora and fauna thrive.

With Japan to the north, China to the west, and the Philippines to the south, Taiwan has always been a location of strategic maritime importance since ancient times. It has played an important role in the development of Asia as well as world history, politics and trade. As a result, Taiwan now enjoys a high level of openness and cultural diversity.

An Introduction to TAIWAN

Society and Culture

Taiwan has a population of 23 million people who still observe their culture and still speak regional Mandarin Chinese dialects in addition to Mandarin.

Taiwan's geographical and historical uniqueness has given rise to a diversity of ethnic groups, cultures, and languages.

There are also 380,000 people who belong to twelve officially recognized indigenous tribes, each with its own social structure, language, and cultural traditions.

1 ——— 2

Environment

People in Taiwan enjoy a free, democratic, and safe society, and international students usually find that it is easy to live and study in Taiwan.

Taiwanese pride themselves on their hospitality, and are committed to creating a friendly and convenient living environment for you to study Mandarin Chinese and experience Chinese and indigenous cultures. Most people in Taiwan speak basic English, are very willing to help new friends from afar.

Even if you have just begun to learn Mandarin Chinese, you will have no problem obtaining the information and assistance you require.

A Complete Education System

Taiwan possesses a diverse and flexible education system since lifelong learning is an important aspect of life. In addition to a nine-year compulsory education and a variety of options for entering senior high schools and vocational schools, Taiwan colleges and universities offer a high quality of education at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Taiwan is committed at all levels of education to enhancing academic research and fostering talent by instilling creativity and global perspectives.

Taiwan is world-renown for its research in physics, engineering, agriculture, medicine, biotechnology, literature, and art history just to name a few. If you come to study Mandarin Chinese in Taiwan, you can opt to stay and pursue further studies after passing the Mandarin Chinese Proficiency Test. You can complete both your undergraduate and graduate degrees in Taiwan.

Tuition for higher education in Taiwan is relatively low compared to other countries, but equal in quality. In addition, the government of Taiwan provides various kinds of scholarships for international students with the intent of supporting and encouraging international students who wish to study in Taiwan. The “Taiwan Scholarship Program” makes available scholarships for students interested in Mandarin Chinese studies as well as those who wish to pursue undergraduate or graduate degrees. If you are interested in applying for these scholarships, you may contact the Cultural Divisions of Taiwan's Embassies/Representative Offices.

Reasons For Studying Mandarin Chinese in Taiwan

There are twenty-six Mandarin training centers located at universities throughout Taiwan. Offering classes year round, these centers provide a variety of courses for students of different proficiency levels. In addition, these centers are staffed by faculty members who have received professional training in teaching Mandarin to international students.

Reason 1: Best Teaching and Learning Environment

Taiwan has for years been home to numerous institutions devoted to the study of Mandarin Chinese language. This is one of the reasons why the number of international students coming to Taiwan for all levels of language study has shown a steady increase.

Students coming to Taiwan can enjoy the benefits of high-quality teaching and a rich learning environment. In addition, there is much to be learned from experiencing the blend of tradition and modernity found in Taiwanese society.

Reason 2: A Rewarding Learning Experience

International students studying in Taiwan will learn to speak Mandarin Chinese using clear, standard pronunciation, and will learn to write using traditional Mandarin Chinese characters, which is one of the oldest writing systems in the world. Traditional Mandarin Chinese characters are very unique and were developed from pictographs. Most traditional Mandarin Chinese characters contain a “form”, “sound”, and “meaning”, so you can roughly guess their meaning and/or pronunciation after having acquired a basic working vocabulary. Traditional Mandarin Chinese characters are also an art form of calligraphy. When you learn to write traditional Mandarin Chinese characters, you are also learning how to appreciate their beauty and aesthetic qualities.

Reason 3: National Test Of Proficiency: Huayu

The Test Of Proficiency: Huayu (TOP) is to determine the Mandarin Chinese listening and reading comprehension of international students. There are three levels: basic, intermediate, and advanced, with a total of seven ranks. Examinees who achieve a passing score will receive a certificate issued by the Mandarin Training Center (MTC) at National Taiwan Normal University and the Association of Teaching Chinese as a Second Language (ATCSL).

Since 2005, TOP has been open to international students around the world. The test can measure a student’s Mandarin Chinese proficiency and weaknesses and serve as a reference for further improvement.

Reason 4: Various Types of Scholarships

The Taiwan government provides the following scholarships to eligible international students who are interested in studying Mandarin Chinese in non-degree programs.

Subsidies of US$5,000 will be awarded to each qualified group.

2. Bank Accounts

The post office is a convenient place to open savings accounts. Students enrolled at a language center can bring their passports, student ID cards, ID number issued by National Immirgration Agency, and NT$100 to open saving accounts at any post office branch. Students can also apply for automatic teller machine (ATM) cards. The post office does not exchange currency and does not accept funds wired from abroad. Scholarship students need to open an account with a post office so stipends can be wired into their accounts. Students are also welcome to open accounts at local banks. Banking hours are weekdays from 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Foreign currency can be exchanged at designated foreign exchange banks. Be sure to keep exchange memos for tax purposes and for use when changing from a visitor visa to a resident visa. Bring passports, student ID cards, ID number issued by National Immirgration Agency to open saving accounts and apply for ATM cards at any post office or bank. For questions about banking policies, such as exchanging traveler’s checks, wiring funds, and opening foreign dollar accounts, inquire directly with the financial institutions.

3. Work

In recent years, the government has taken steps to crack down on foreign nationals working with-out a work permit. This has affected students working as English teachers while pursuing their Mandarin Chinese studies. Students who have studied at a school for two semesters continuously or are enrolled in a language program for one year and have shown excellent academic progress may apply for a work permit from the Bureau of Employment & Vocational Training of the Council of Labor Affairs. To obtain information on work permits, please visit the Office of Student Affairs at your school or the Council of Labor Affairs: <http://www.cla.gov.tw>. It usually takes five working days to issue a work permit. Application forms can be downloaded from the Bureau of Employment and Vocational Training at: http://www2.evta.gov.tw/evta_wcf/index_eng.htm

4. Insurance, Health and Medical Care

Local insurance companies offer group insurance policies for international students. Some institutes require that their students join their insurance plan unless the students can present proof of other coverage during registration. Insurance policies usually cover medical treatment for hospital stays due to illness or injury. If medical attention is required as a result of an injury related to an accident, students may apply for a reimbursement from their insurance plans. Taiwan has a universal health care system. Internationals who hold Alien Resident Certificates (ARCs) must join the ROC National Health Insurance Program exactly four months after receiving their ARC and are responsible for paying monthly insurance premiums. Drug stores are indentified by green crosses on them. If a student visits a doctor and is prescribed medication, the doctor’s office or clinic will dispense the medicine.

5. Climate

Taiwan’s climate is subtropical, and it is usually humid throughout the year. Summers, from May to September, are hot. Winters are short, usually lasting from mid December to February, and can be chilly (between 10 and 20 degrees Celsius).

6. Electricity

Electrical current is 110 volts, 60 cycles, AC..

7. Food

There are on-campus dining halls and each meal costs NT$40-130. Food stalls are usually found within 15 minutes walking distance from campus. The least expensive of all these options (NT$40-80/meal) is the student cafeteria, which offers noodles, rice, and a selection of buffet-style foods.

8. Transportation

Traveling to, and around Taiwan is very convenient. There are two international airports in Taiwan: Taiwan Taoyuan International Airport, and Kaohsiung International Airport. Taiwan Taoyuan International Airport is located in northern Taiwan, only 40 kilometers from Taipei, while Kaohsiung International Airport is located in southern Taiwan. These two international airports offer a wide variety of services to international travelers. Domestic airlines also provide frequent flights between major cities around the island. Taiwan has an island-wide transportation system that allows you to travel around the island with ease. The railway network extends to every corner of Taiwan, bringing you to villages with undisturbed serenity. The Taiwan High Speed Rail provides faster and more convenient transport services between the north and south. Long-distance coach services and inter-city buses are also good options. They are inexpensive, comfortable, and frequent. Some of them even provide round-the-clock service. If you decide to live in Taipei, the capital of Taiwan, the city’s MRT subway system will definitely be your best way to explore the city. The subway is fast, clean, convenient, safe, and inexpensive. It is comprised of a several lines covering most of Taipei City and Taipei County and is still expanding.
