

Vision

The 21st century has a knowledge-driven, digital and environmentally-conscious economy. In facing its challenges, education has to become the catalyst for national development. All countries invest abundant resources in the cultivation of human talent. These investments emphasise upgrading the quality of teaching and the cultivation of premium human resources. They also seek to strengthen creativity and information technology skills and to cultivate the values of diversity and sustainability, in order to confront the challenges of the future.

Considering the trend of international development and recognising that the infrastructure of Taiwan rests on human talent and that education plays a key role in cultivating human talent, the Ministry of Education has formulated the following vision of Taiwan's education: To build a complete and high-quality educational environment; to empower educators and learners to grow effectively and happily and to gain knowledge; to nurture the ability for self-accomplishment so as to cultivate citizens with excellent dispositions and insight for the modern age and for the situation of globalisation.

Based on this vision, we will promote the global competitiveness of Taiwan through multi-education learning and adaptive development, by cultivating talents balanced with humanism and technology, learning and service, thinking globally, but acting locally. In the future, education will create a mechanism for all people to share values and communicate opinions. Through this mechanism, we can harness the power of all the people to contribute to Taiwan's sustainable development.
